

Private content

Having a website that allows users to register will allow you to distinguish between casual visitors and other visitors who provide added value (customers, suppliers, employees, ...)

Therefore, this type lets you create web pages that will only be visible to users you choose. You may publish them

- internal documents
- manuals for products or services of your company
- price catalogs for wholesalers

Surely you will think of many more utilities for an area of exclusive access to registered users in which to publish content from a more restricted tranquility.
